Certain Highlights of the Personal Data (Privacy) Ordinance
What is “personal data”?

- non personal data is not protected under the PD(P)O
- but note other general obligations of confidentiality
"personal data" (個人資料) means any data:

- relating directly or indirectly to a living individual
- from which it is practicable for the identity of the individual to be directly or indirectly ascertained
- in a form in which access to or processing of the data is practicable
"data" (資料)

means any representation of information (including an expression of opinion) in any document, and includes a personal identifier
Personal Data (Privacy) Ordinance

“personal identifier“ (個人身分標識符) means an identifier:

- that is assigned to an individual by a data user for the purpose of the operations of the user
- that uniquely identifies that individual in relation to the data user, but does not include an individual's name used to identify that individual
Personal Data (Privacy) Ordinance

Examples of personal data
Student, Staff, Patient and Research

- Name, Address, Phone No., and HKID/UID No.
- “Expression of Opinion” – Comments made by referees
- Examination paper – Comments made by markers

Note: Email / IP Address
The Six Data Protection Principles

Section 4

“A data user shall not do an act, or engage in a practice, that contravenes a data protection principle unless the act or practice, as the case may be, is required or permitted under this Ordinance.”
Six Data Protection Principles

1) Purpose and Manner of Collection

2) Accuracy and Duration of Retention

3) Use of Personal Data

4) Security of Personal Data

5) Information to be generally available

6) Access to Personal Data

Schedule 1
Data Protection Principles

Schedule 1

Principle 1 - purpose and manner of collection of personal data
Principle 2 - accuracy and duration of retention of personal data
Principle 3 - use of personal data
Principle 4 - security of personal data
Principle 5 - information to be generally available
Principle 6 - access to personal data
Data Protection Principles

Data Collection (DPP1)

- Lawful, related, necessary, not excessive and fair
- Data collection statement

Examples: Application Forms, CCTV, etc.
Data Protection Principles

Use of Personal Data (DPP3)

- Prescribed consent – need not be in writing, but note the problem of evidence

- Not for a “new purpose”: purpose of collection (or a directly related purpose) – how to interpret the purpose / directly related purpose
Data Protection Principles

Exemption for DPP3 (Section 58)

(1) Personal data held for the purposes of:
(a) the prevention or detection of crime
(d) the prevention, preclusion or remedying (including punishment) of unlawful or seriously improper conduct, or dishonesty or malpractice, by persons
...
Data Protection Principles

(2) Personal data is exempt from the provisions of data protection principle 3 in any case in which:

(a) the use of the data is for any of the purposes referred to in subsection (1) (and whether or not the data is held for any of those purposes); and
Data Protection Principles

(b) the application of those provisions in relation to such use would be likely to prejudice any of the matters referred to in that subsection, and in any proceedings against any person for a contravention of any of those provisions it shall be a defence to show that he had reasonable grounds for believing that failure to so use the data would have been likely to prejudice any of those matters

Exemption for DPP3 (Section 59)

Common Questions and Issues
What and when personal data should be collected?

- Note DPP1 and, in particular the non-excessive/alternative principle
- For example, HKID Card and Number
- Other data: health and family data
- Check the Code of Practice on Human Resource Management:
What data and how long such data should be retained?

- Note DPP2 and Section 26: the principle of purpose/directly related purpose, necessity and legal obligation (employment records, tax returns, litigation, etc.)

- Job applicants’ information (what is stated in the collection statement – the two-year rule)

- Note the exception of public interest (including historical interest)
Under what circumstances personal data can be used, disclosed, shared and transferred?

- Note DPP3: the principles of prescribed consent, and purpose/directly related purpose
- A matter of interpretation and judgment: the reasonable/commonsense approach
What security measures should be taken?

- Note DPP4
- Proper measures should be taken to ensure personal data will not be accessed, tampered, disclosed, released, transferred and destroyed
- Handling of data, authorized access, security control and monitoring, use of IT equipment and devices (e.g. portable storage devices, mobile phones, etc.)
What security measures should be taken?

- Guidelines, process, training, awareness and supervision
- Dealings with third parties (proper agreement and audit)
- Privacy Impact Assessment
What is a statutory data access request?

- Note DPP6 and Section 18
- The prescribed form should be used
- Only personal data are subject to the request, but not “documents”
- Expression of opinion (e.g. comments on performance) falls within the definition of personal data
What are the points to note for data breach?

- Guidance Note of the Privacy Commissioner
- Damage control (e.g. identity theft or fraud)
- Notifications to the affected data subjects and the relevant authorities
